

The Arizona Trail

The Arizona Trail invites hikers, equestrians, mountain bicyclists, cross-country skiers, and other non-motorized outdoor enthusiasts to experience Arizona's diverse backcountry and explore its unique variety of landscapes, wildlife, vegetation, geology, and historical places.

The Arizona Trail is a 800-mile border-to-border route between Mexico and Utah. Every day, work is being done by land management agencies and volunteers to build and maintain the Arizona Trail. Over 650 miles of the Arizona Trail are already open to the public.

Arizona Trail Partners, a consortium of municipal, county, state, and federal public land agencies, have committed to the development and management of the Trail. Individuals, businesses, and numerous organizations, as well as thousands of volunteers, help support and maintain the Arizona Trail.

The Arizona Trail Association, a non-profit organization, works closely with the Trail Partners and provides a statewide network of Segment Stewards - individuals and groups - who volunteer to help develop and maintain the Arizona Trail. More trail building funds and volunteers are needed. You can help build this legacy for Arizona. Contact the Arizona Trail Association today!
